More U.S. Raids To Save POWs Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is keeping its options open on the possibility of more commando raids to free American prisoners similar to the daring but fruitless weekend mission just 23 miles from Hanoi, according to Pentagon sources.

In describing the almost fiction-like raid to newsmen Monday, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said the commandos were sent far beyond the North Vietnamese border because of frustrated diplomatic efforts to free captive Americans.

"We shall continue to make every effort to free our prisoners," Laird said during a news conference. "This mission, this daring mission . . ." he went on, "does show our dedication to these men and we will do everything that we can in our power to accomplish their early release."

When asked later if this meant more raids, the Pentagon source declined to rule them out, saying officials weren't closing the door on the possibility.

Laird himself had hinted at possible similar tactics in the future during his opening remarks Monday when he told of preparing contingency plans for commando raids in the face of Hanoi's refusal to negotiate the POW issue.

Laird's description of the Saturday raid—made even more dramatic by the presence of the commando leader—caught newsmen by total surprise as he related how specially trained Army and Air Force volunteers flew helicopters through enemy fire the post-midnight darkness to land right in the suspected prisoner of war compound.

"Regrettably the rescue team discovered the camp had recently been vacated," Laird said in solemn tones. "No prisoners were located." But, he went on, "If there had been prisoners in the compound at Son Tay, they would be free men today."

Laird said he ordered the raid with the knowledge and blessing of President Nixon after receiving new information "that some of our men were dying in prisoner of war camps."

The undercover mission was the first mounted to liberate a POW camp in North Vietnam, although, as Laird indicated, helicopters have often flown north of the demilitarized zone to rescue downed American pilots.

Immediately, it was asked whether the commando act would bring retaliation by North Vietnam.

The White House answered: "The United States would hold the leaders of North Vietnam personally responsible" for any reprisals taken against U.S. prisoners as a result of the unsuccessful rescue effort.

Describing the operation, Laird said the raiders hit the camp at 2 a.m., Hanoi time, about the same time some 250 U.S. war planes were striking missile, antiaircraft and supply targets in North Vietnam's Southern Panhandle below the 19th parallel.

Navy planes dropped lighting flares off the North Vietnamese coast above the parallel as a diversionary tactic to draw attention from the helicopter-borne commando force.

Although the "protective reaction" air strikes to the south may have helped confuse the North Vietnamese, Laird emphasized they were not intended as a cover for the rescue operation.

The raiders, according to accounts given by Laird and Pentagon sources, apparently went undetected by flying in under enemy radar, and drew fire only when they were over the camp. They were aided by an almost moonless night.

SAMs Fired At B52s? U.S. Command Keeps Mum

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command refused to comment today on speculation that North Vietnamese surface-to-air missiles—the SAMs supplied Hanoi by the Soviet Union—have been fired recently at U.S. B52 bombers attacking the Ho Chi Minh trail near the border between Laos and North Vietnam.

An American military spokesman said no B52s have been lost to enemy fire, but he declined to say if any had been fired on.

Because the B52s fly at 30,000 feet, the SAMs are the only antiaircraft weapon in the North Vietnamese arsenal that might hit them.

The speculation that SAMs may have been fired at B52s over Laos stemmed from information given in Washington about the U.S. raids on North Vietnam last weekend.

Officials said the main targets were missile and antiaircraft gun positions and stockpiles of war materials on approach routes to the Mu Gia and Ban Karai passes between North Vietnam and Laos, and on other routes to be demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said the purpose of the strikes was to protect the lives of American pilots flying reconnaissance over North Vietnam and also those "flying missions associated with interdiction of North Vietnamese military supplies throughout southern Laos moving toward South Vietnam."

This raised the possibility that the enemy had fired on the B52s as well as smaller U.S. fighter-bombers. Both fly missions against the enemy supply traffic through Laos.

North Vietnamese missile batteries were first moved into Laos nearly a year ago. Six SAM launch sites were observed in the area where the Mu Gia Pass, a major North Vietnamese supply route, enters the Laotian panhandle. Fighter bombers attacked the missile sites then after three SAMs were fired at a flight of B52s.

The U.S. Command spokesman also refused to say whether any of the giant Stratofortresses participated in the weekend raids on supply depots in North Vietnam. He referred newsmen to Laird's statements, which did not specify the types of aircraft that made the strikes.

In the war today, only ground skirmishes were reported in South Vietnam, and the U.S. Command said field reports indicated there were no American battlefield deaths Monday. It was the third day this month that no Americans were reported killed in action.

Copter Pilots Tell Of Mission To My Lai

Calley's Name Not Mentioned In Testimony

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — A former helicopter pilot said today he saw large U.S. gunships mow down fleeing Vietnamese along a highway at My Lai during the assault on the village in 1968.

Brian W. Livingston, 26, now an investment counselor of Killeen, Tex., testified under cross-examination at the court-martial of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., that he saw the "Sharks," big helicopter gunships, attack the people along the road.

"I saw bodies falling left and right off the road," he said. Livingston said he was piloting a helicopter over Highway 521 at the time.

He said he made a low run over the village and saw people coming out onto the highway, and that the gunships then attacked them.

Earlier, on direct questioning, Livingston told an Army prosecutor that he saw between 35 and 50 bodies in a horseshoe shaped trench in another sector of the village.

He described it as "a trench line, horseshoe shaped ditch that goes around the road."

Livingston said he saw no hostile fire and encountered no enemy resistance.

Another helicopter crewman, Calvin D. Hodde, 22, of Ft. Hood, Tex., said he was in another helicopter and that bodies were everywhere.

He was asked where the bodies were, and said they were along a trail and at least 30 were in a ditch.

Under cross-examination Monday, another helicopter pilot, Lt. Hugh Thompson, 27, of Decatur, Ga., testified of seeing evidence of atrocities.

Thompson, who was decorated for heroism at My Lai, and his gunner, Lawrence Colburn, 20, of Auburn, Wash., said they saw bodies of elderly men, women and children in a ditch. Some were alive, they said.

But neither mentioned the name of Calley.

Agnew Confers With L.A. Times

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has arrived in Los Angeles from Hawaii to confer today with the editorial board of the Los Angeles Times and spend Thanksgiving in Palm Springs.

Agnew and his family flew into Los Angeles International Airport Monday night aboard Air Force 2.

The vice president wound up a five-day vacation in Honolulu where he addressed the closing session of the Associated Press Managing Editors convention Friday. It was his only public engagement while in Hawaii.

Agnew and his family plan to spend five days in Palm Springs.

Red China Blasts U.S. Bomb Raids

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China again today condemned U.S. air strikes against North Vietnam and said Peking is keeping an eye on developments in Indochina.

Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, declared in Moscow that the bombings constitute "an old policy of continuing and widening aggression" that is "a strategy of impotence and despair." All major Soviet newspapers printed a statement from Tass, the news agency, denouncing the raids as renewed aggression and provocation.

Peking and Moscow began a chain of bitter criticisms of the United States soon after the strikes were announced Saturday. The Pentagon called them "protective reaction" following North Vietnam's downing of an American reconnaissance plane.

Observers saw no threat of direct intervention in the Peking broadcast but considered it a pledge to continue supplying military equipment.

In the statement broadcast by the New China News Agency, the ministry said President Nixon has been continuing and expanding aggression. "His so-called era of negotiation is but to cover up aggression under the camouflage of negotiation," the statement said.

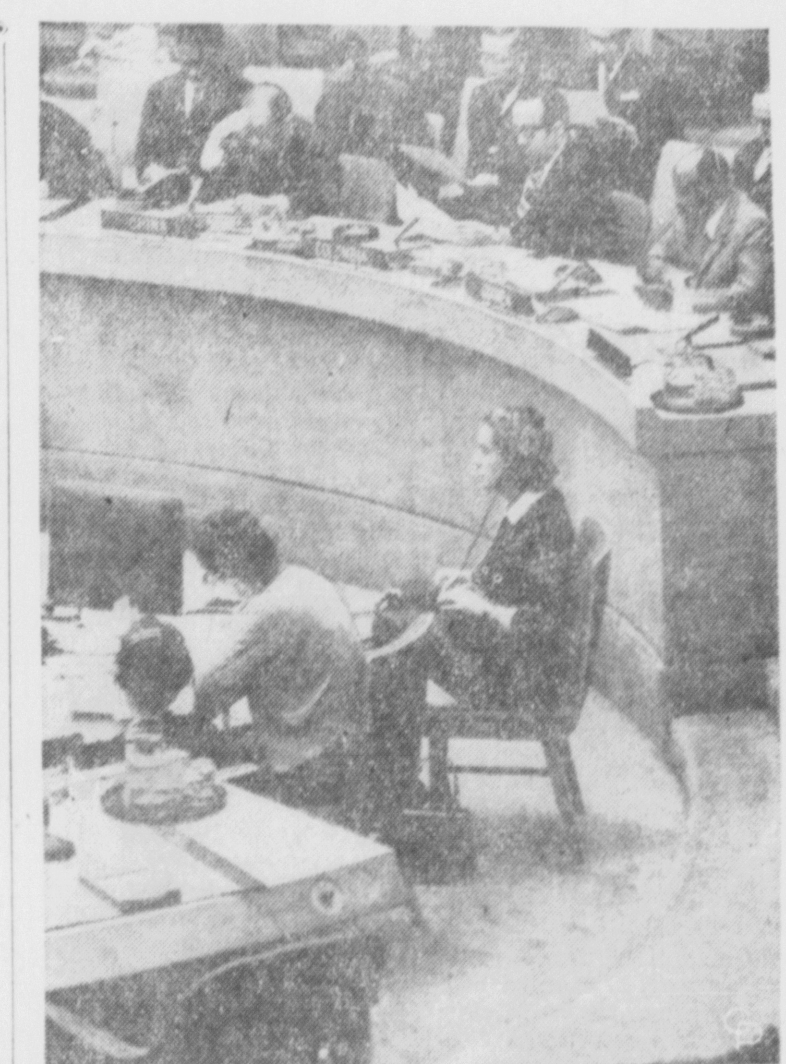

Moscow's Defense Ministry newspaper Red Star said the Pentagon hoped to force North Vietnam to capitulate.

Cincinnati Police Chief Schott Dies

CINCINNATI (AP) — Col. Jacob Schott, who had served as Cincinnati police chief since 1966, died at Jewish Hospital Monday night.

Schott, who was 55, had been hospitalized frequently since he underwent an operation in 1967 for an intestinal obstruction.

The hospital did not say what caused his death.

U.N. SENDS MISSION TO GUINEA — The chair (left foreground) of Portugal's chief delegate to the United Nations, Antonio Patrio, is empty as Guinea Ambassador Hadj Abdoulaye Toure (right rear) accuses Portuguese forces of armed aggression on the Guinea capital of Conakry. The council voted to dispatch a mission to investigate the charge.

Dangers Of 'Time Capsule' Drugs Probed By Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is no evidence so-called time capsule drugs are more effective than regular preparations and in some cases may be highly dangerous, Senate investigators have been told.

One possible hazard cited in testimony was described by Dr. Sidney Merlis, director of psychiatric research at New York's Central Islip State Hospital.

Merlis said a nurse at the hospital died from an adverse reaction to a powerful tranquilizer called Chlorpromazine when tiny pellets from the time capsule, or sustained action drug, were caught in the crevices of her stomach lining and could not be flushed out.

Merlis testified Monday as the subcommittee, chaired by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., opened four days of hearings into government purchasing of drugs.

Sustained action drugs generally take the form of capsules containing tiny pellets with a protective coating of varying thicknesses that wears off gradually, releasing steady and continued small dosages.

The subject of this type of drug came up during questioning of Merlis, Dr. Leo E. Hollister, a medical investigator with the Veterans Administration; and Dr. Jonathan Cole, superintendent of the Boston State Hospital.

Subcommittee counsel Ben Gordon told Hollister that in 1969 the VA bought a tranquilizer called meprobamate from a Danish firm for $1.55 per 500 tablets while at the same time it was buying the sustained release form cost the VA 2,300 per American firm for $7.25 per 100 tablets.

Gordon said the sustained release form cost the VA 2,300 per cent more and he asked:

"Does this kind of buying seem sensible to you?"

Hollister said it did not because there was no evidence the sustained action form of the drug was more effective.

Cole commented that he, too, was against such drugs and said he once told a drug salesman that if he could prove a sustained action preparation was more effective than the regular dosage he would buy it.

"I haven't heard from him yet," Cole said.

President Sets News Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has scheduled his first news conference in more than four months for Dec. 10.

By that time, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said, Nixon will have made what is expected to be a major speech on the economy and the lame duck session in Congress will be almost over.

The last time Nixon faced the press corps was July 30, Ziegler said the Dec. 10 conference probably would be televised.

Identification Of Invaders Confused

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — Radio Conakry reported new attempts by "Portuguese fascists and their mercenaries" to land in Guinea during the night, after the weekend invasion of the little West African country appeared to have ended.

The government radio in the Guinean capital said the defending forces repelled "many incursions."

Travelers arriving Monday night in Abidjan, the Ivory Coast capital, said they had seen the invasion fleet sailing away, and the government of President Sekou Toure had told its people to go back to work but to keep their weapons handy.

Despite Guinea's repeated charges that the invasion was a Portuguese operation, there was considerable speculation in Monrovia that the invaders were rebellious Guineans trying to overthrow their Marxist president. It was thought quite likely that such a force had been trained and equipped in neighboring Portuguese Guinea since Toure lets opponents of the Portuguese colonial regime use his country as a base.

However, Portugal denied all connection with the attacks on Conakry.

Guinea claimed that Portuguese warships landed hundreds of mercenaries Saturday night at Conakry, and that many Guineans and a number of Europeans were killed in the next two days of fighting. Radio Conakry said the invaders were repeatedly driven off, but there was no word on casualties among the invading force.

Two Belgians arriving in Brussels said the invasion "appeared to be a complete failure." But that was before Radio Conakry reported landings during Monday night.

An official of Sabena, the Belgian airline, said the situation in Conakry was "very confused," and the airport was heavily guarded by Guinea troops armed with Chinese guns and wearing Soviet-type helmets.

He said there was considerable fear because mercenaries were believed to be hiding in and around the city.

Another Belgian on the same plane said he was awakened Saturday night by shots and bursts of machine-gun fire. He said Guinean forces frequently fired at each other in the confusion.

He reported several mercenaries had been taken prisoner, and the raiders had succeeded in freeing a number of political prisoners.

SAIGON (AP) — A light U.S. plane and a South Vietnamese helicopter collided in the air in the Mekong Delta today and first reports said 3 Americans and 14 Vietnamese were killed.

Send Letters To Santa In Care Of The Herald

What is the zip code for the North Pole? How will Santa Claus know what is on your lists for Christmas?

The Herald will make sure the jolly old man has all these things in mind before he and his reindeer begin their long journey on Christmas Eve. Write your letter to Santa, making sure you include your full name, age and complete address, but instead of worrying about the proper zip code and mail service to the frozen land, send the letter to us.

Special arrangements were made by the Herald staff to deliver our daily newspapers beginning Dec. 1 to the North Pole. Included in every copy we promised to have letters from youngsters in our circulation area telling him what they would most like to find under the tree this year. We will mail our paper to him and his elves to give them time to gather the toys and gifts together before the big night.

Santa has even promised to send replies back to each boy and girl who gets his letter in early enough. He has one staff of elves who will personally see that every letter printed in The Herald will be answered.

So when mailing your letter to Santa Claus this year, address it to him in care of the Herald, Box 498, Circleville, Ohio 43113. We will see that it is delivered to him in an edition of The Herald.

Remember, there are only 31 days until Christmas.

Senate Doves Blast Action In North Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said today the nation faces disaster unless President Nixon puts a bipartisan foreign policy ahead of partisan domestic political considerations.

And he called on Nixon to restore "the habit of consultation between the White House and the Congress, for only consultation gives substance to the idea of bipartisanship."

Aiken, senior Republican member of the Foreign Relations Committee, delivered a broad-ranging foreign policy speech that criticized both policies and the way in which the Johnson and Nixon administrations have abandoned consultation with the Congress.

Referring to last April's U.S. move into Cambodia, Aiken said had the President chosen to consult with the Senate in advance, "I think he would have spared himself and the country much grief. Some of us might have been in a position to stand up and help him, if not by praising his words then at least by supporting his deeds."

Aiken spoke in the midst of the revival in the Senate of angry debate over Vietnam, spurred by the weekend raids into North Vietnam including the unsuccessful bid to free American prisoners near Hanoi.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird came to Capitol Hill today to brief members of the Senate Armed Services Committee on the weekend action.

The Foreign Relations Committee, center of war criticism, also was trying to arrange a session so its members could be briefed on the possible policy implications of the latest war moves.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, joined by fellow Democrats Edward

M. Kennedy and George S. McGovern, carried the dove's fight Monday when he called the weekend actions "a very major escalation of the war that, it seems to me, will entail greatly intensified conflict."

This, suggested the Arkansas Democrat and chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, "would seem to indicate that the actual policy is to escalate the war and to seek a military victory."

Fulbright reacted to the unsuccessful attempt to liberate Americans erroneously thought held in a camp near Hanoi by saying the commando strike was "certainly a very provocative act to mount a physical invasion . . ."

Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., defended both the bombing raids and the commando action in an exchange with Kennedy marked with such heavy sarcasm as to strain normal Senate courtesy.

"We have heard so much about the efforts that were being made, new efforts, new initiatives," Kennedy said to Dole. "Is the senator satisfied that this (commando raid) pro-

HONORED GUEST AND SPEAKER — Circleville head football coach Dennis Williams (left) and CHS team members were guests of Circleville Kiwanis Club Monday night where they heard Father R. J. Connelly, (right) speak on "Sports in American Life". Father Connelly, a native of Newark and Washington C.H. resident, is chaplain of the Cleveland Browns. He spent 32 months overseas in WW II as a major in the Chaplain Corps and was awarded the Bronze Star and five battle stars. He is past national chaplain of Elks and past state chaplain of American Legion and Elks.

CHS Champions Honored At Local Kiwanis Meet

Father Richard J. Connelly, guest speaker at Circleville Kiwanis meeting Monday night, posed the question, "who brought the fog machine to Washington C. H. when Circleville Tigers defeated the WCH Blue Lions for the SCOL championship?" Father Connelly is a WCH resident and has served 25½ years as Chaplain of the Cleveland Browns.

Circleville football team members and coaching staff were special guests of Kiwanis when Father Connelly spoke on "Sports in American Life."

"Sports have done more for the youth of America, with the exception of religion, than anything else," he said. "Sportsmanship learned will carry you through life. Ability is all-important, not race or creed. To be a champion takes many hours of practice," said the Father, who also reminded the boys that their parents supported them all the way.

Referring to the song, "You're Nobody Till Somebody Loves You," the chaplain told the boys to go to church, believe in God, so when help is needed there is someone to lean on. "You're never too big to pray and should never be ashamed to cry," were his words.

During the business session of the Monday meeting, it was reported Kiwanis will support the national clean-up campaign by distributing litter bags in the community. An appeal was made for blood donors during the Friday visit of the Bloodmobile to Circleville and Kiwanis President Jim Shea read a letter from the civic club's international president calling for distribution and signing of petitions to be directed to the president of North Vietnam asking for humane treatment for prisoners of war.

The upcoming meeting was announced for the directors Dec. 2 at the home of Stan Spring. It was also noted Dec. 14 is Ladies Night and a special Christmas program will be presented.

Program chairman Monday was Fred Bower.

Cuyahoga Escapee Shot, Nabbed

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A 21-year-old murder suspect who escaped with nine other men from the Cuyahoga County Jail Sunday was reported in fair condition today at Mount Sinai Hospital with shoulder and side wounds.

The suspect, James Valentine, of Cleveland, was shot and wounded as he fled from two tactical unit officers who were chasing him Monday.

Valentine, the fifth escapee to be recaptured, is charged with first-degree murder in the slaying of off-duty Cleveland Police Officer Ken R. Houser in April, 1969.

Officers said Valentine was in a house on East 65th Street but escaped through a rear window as sheriff's deputies and police officers moved in to capture him.

Two other officers, James J. Riggola, 26, and Robert A. Granning, 27, saw a man answering Valentine's description walking along East 65th Street and they gave chase, firing at him after he whirled and fired at them.

Valentine slipped away from the two policemen. But they captured him a short time later in a house they say he illegally entered.

ally crash-landed inside the prison compound and the raiders, including some Army Green Berets, destroyed the guard tower. Other helicopters followed. Every building was searched and the locks broken on the detention cells, but no prisoners were found. Enemy resistance was light.

Leading the attack was Army Col. Arthur D. Simons, 52, an infantryman and former Green Beret commander who was introduced by Laird at the news conference along with Air Force Brig. Gen. LeRoy J. Manor, 49, charged with over-all command of the operation.

Both officers, Laird said, arrived in Washington earlier in the day from Saigon and were later taken to the White House and commended personally by the President.

"We caught them completely by surprise," said Simons, adding that his team suffered but one casualty—a man wounded by rifle fire from a Chinese-made AK47. Everyone got out safely, he said.

Asked if his group killed any of the North Vietnamese during the hour they were on the ground, he replied, "I imagine so," but added his men did not stop to count bodies.

Manor said no evidence was found of American graves, but noted it was dark and "we were not searching for that."

No information was given as to the size of the raiding party, the number of helicopters used or where they came from.

Laird said contingency plans for a prisoner rescue attempt were drawn up several months ago "in the face of the continued and adamant refusal of the other side either to abide by the provisions of the Geneva Convention or to participate in meaningful negotiations on the exchange of prisoners of war."

The camp at Son Tay was chosen, Laird explained, because "we were reasonably confident that we could land this force at this location."

Manor said the camp had been abandoned for "several weeks." It was left unclear why North Vietnamese troops were still there.

Asked about the failure of U.S. intelligence in not knowing the camp had been emptied, Laird replied that locating POW compounds is a tough assignment even with the constant use of reconnaissance planes. "The situation was such, however, that we were reasonably confident that this particular location had been used."

In making his startling disclosure, the defense secretary emphasized "this was the only operation that took place north of the 19th parallel this past week-end."

The story of the aborted rescue mission was apparently intended to dispel doubts cast during an earlier Monday news conference in which a Pentagon spokesman steadfastly refused to say whether any U.S. planes hit targets north of the 19th parallel.

Gets Federal Grant

WASHINGTON (AP) — A navigation project for Geneva-on-the-Lake, Ohio, received a $605,000 federal allocation from a House Public Works subcommittee Monday.

The allocation is one of many to be included in the omnibus water projects authorization bill Congress is expected to act upon before adjourning this year.

OSP Arrests Man Wanted By Michigan Authorities

James Leroy Viers, 29, Haysi, Va., wanted by authorities in Mt. Clemens, Mich., since June 26, 1969, was arrested by Ohio State Patrolman E. J. Keegan at 1:05 a.m. today on Route 23 near the patrol post.

Keegan stopped Viers and arrested him for driving while intoxicated. A routine check was run through the National Crime Information Center and it was discovered Viers was wanted by Michigan authorities.

When confronted with the information, he told Keegan, "You probably won't believe this, but I was heading back to Michigan to give myself up."

Keegan charged Viers with driving while intoxicated and driving without a license. Municipal Judge Sterling M. Lamb today fined him a total of $250 and sentenced him to six days in the county jail. Michigan authorities were informed he was being held here.

A passenger in the car, Wicks Rivlio Robinson, 37, Ferndale, Mich., was fined $15 and costs for public intoxication.

Drunk drivers were prominent in Monday's completed court docket when acting Judge Harry Margulis presided.

John C. Watkins, 36, Route 1, Williamsport, was fined $150 and costs, sentenced to three days in the county jail and had his driving rights suspended for three years for OMVI. He was also fined $100 and costs and sentenced to three days in the county jail for driving when he had no license.

Richard L. Hesson, 25, Huntington, W. Va., received the same fine and jail sentences for the identical charges. Jerome Ferdinand Woods, 38, Columbus, was fined $150 and costs and sentenced to three days for driving while intoxicated. He was fined $50 and costs for driving with no license. Judy Hamilton, 23, 611 S. Washington St., was fined $150 and costs and sentenced to three days in jail for driving while intoxicated.

Roger Eugene Wooten, 19, Delaware, was charged with driving while intoxicated. He pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of reckless operation and was fined $50 and costs by Margulis.

Gerald Lee Webster, 48, Ashville, was fined $25 and costs for speeding 90 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Ernest Adams, 28, 446 Watt St., Jerald Ott, 19, Orient, each forfeited $19 bonds for exceeding the speed limit by 10 miles per hour.

Herbert E. Fultz, 22, Route 4, was fined $20 and costs for driving when his license had expired. Turney D. Glick, 18, Ashville, was fined $25 and costs for operating a motor vehicle equipped with a faulty muffler and $25 and costs for driving a vehicle that did not have a front license plate displayed.

Margaret J. Michos, 46, 585 Plaza Drive, forfeited a $19 bond for speeding 45 miles per hour in a 35 mile zone.

Ellis Morrow and Terry Moss, both of Route 1, were fined $25 and costs for disturbing the peace and $50 and costs for making menacing threats. The charges were filed by Tom Eveland, manager of Prairie Lanes.

Anna M. Diltz, 310 Crites Road and Marie Smith, Route 3, were each fined $35 and costs for selling beer to minors at Giovanni's Pizza. Randy Arledge of Circleville forfeited a $24 bond for intoxication.

vies a much better way of freeing the prisoners than negotiations?"

"The best way is through negotiations," the Kansas Republican responded. "But negotiations have failed. What do we do in the meantime? Sit back and wait?"

Kennedy then asked "whether the American people ought to be prepared for other strikes such as this? Are we going to have other kinds of surprises similar to this?"

Dole said he didn't know but contended the raid was "successful in demonstrating American concern." He added: "Some of these men have been languishing in prison for five years."

"And they're still there," Kennedy snapped.

Praising the U.S. soldiers who volunteered for the rescue mission, Dole said, "This is the American spirit in the highest tradition. I want to applaud the action. In my opinion it was successful."

"Is this the only way of demonstrating American concern?" Kennedy asked.

"I admire their courage," the Massachusetts Democrat said. "I just deplore the policy that permitted them to go."

"The quickest way you get the prisoners out is to announce that we're getting out lock, stock and barrel."

Fulbright demanded to know if the rescue mission and the bombing raids were "designed to promote a negotiated settlement of the war."

"Based on the great success we have had so far," Dole replied, "I would only guess it would not be any great impediment."

The debate was set off Monday when McGovern, whose effort is to set a time limit on U.S. participation in the war, was rejected by the Senate last summer, called for withdrawal of all American forces by next June 30.

Noting he was accused of trying to tie the President's hands, McGovern said, "If tying the President's hands is the only way we can stop him from tying our country down to an indefinite war in Indochina, then we indeed should tie his hands and force an end to this conflict."

He charged Nixon with "a clear failure to keep his 1968 campaign pledge to the American people to end the war."

Tarr Attacks Draft Proposal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Selective Service Director Curtis Tarr says passage of a congressional proposal to broaden the grounds for conscientious objection might lead to his resignation.

The proposal would exempt from the draft young men who claim their consciences are against a particular war, such as the Vietnam conflict.

In a taping for a television show made public Monday, Tarr said such exemptions would complicate his job "that I'll give it up if anybody wants it."

He said the proposal would make it nearly impossible to separate those "who have a problem of conscience from those who have a problem of politics."

Stock List Turns Mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices were mixed today as the rally produced in Monday's session ran out of steam.

At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 0.61 at 766.91. Gaining issues on the New York Stock Exchange led declines by a margin of approximately 7 to 6.

The market was mixed from near the session's start.

Today's drifting performance followed a session in which the Dow industrial average climbed 5.95 points after news of a general cut in the prime lending rate. The prime rate is the interest rate by commercial banks to their most creditworthy customers—usually businesses.

Analysts said they drew encouragement from the fact that trading dried up as the market entered its listless phase. They said also that many investors appeared to be concerned about the economy in the light of negative news about some key economic indicators.

Philos Lodge Hosts District 11 Meeting

Philos Lodge 64, Knights of Pythias, hosted the District 11 meeting Monday.

A collection was taken for the K of P Home in Springfield.

Four members of the Philos Lodge attended ribbon cutting ceremonies of the new wing added to the hospital section of the home. They were Frank Woodward, Robert Denman, Milo M. Wise and Orwell Barr.

The new wing was constructed at a cost of $60,000 and money was raised through the efforts of Kenny Hess, past grand chancellor of Ohio and past superintendent of the Pythian Home.

The four members also attended the dedication of the new castle hall in Springfield and gave the esquire rank to 11 candidates.

JFK Adviser, Wife Divorced

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Marian Cannon Schlesinger has won a divorce from Arthur Schlesinger Jr., historian and adviser to the late President John F. Kennedy.

Mrs. Schlesinger was awarded alimony of $4,700 a month in the decree handed down Monday in Middlesex Probate Court. In her divorce petition, she alleged cruel and abusive treatment.

Married more than 30 years, they are parents of three children.

Gilligan Lost Hamilton County

CINCINNATI (AP) — Democrat John Gilligan, who won election as Ohio governor Nov. 3, lost by 40,952 votes in his home county—Hamilton—to Republican state auditor Roger Cloud.

The figures were among a final, official tabulation released Monday by the Hamilton County Board of Elections here. No results were changed in the final count.

Figures also showed that almost exactly 300,000 of the county's 413,382 registered voters cast ballots in the election. More than 75 per cent of the registered voters in the county went to the polls while slightly over 69 per cent from the city did.

ORDINANCE NO. 55-50

Fixing and regulating the price that may be charged by Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., its successors or assigns, for natural gas to the City of Circleville, Ohio, and to its inhabitants, for the period of Four (4) Years from and after the effective date of this ordinance; and repealing Ordinance No. 55-46 passed by the Council of the City of Circleville, Ohio, on the 6th day of September, 1966, entitled: "Ordinance No. 55-46 — Fixing and regulating the price that may be charged by Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., its successors or assigns, for natural gas to the City of Circleville, Ohio, and to its inhabitants, for the period of four (4) Years from and after the effective date of this ordinance."

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CIRCLEVILLE, OHIO:

SECTION 1: That, for the period of One (1) Year from and after the effective date of this ordinance, the maximum price which Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., its successors or assigns, shall be permitted to charge for and the minimum price at which it or they shall be required to furnish natural gas to the City of Circleville, Ohio, and to its inhabitants, shall be and the same is hereby fixed for each individual consumer, as follows:

Thirty Cents (30c) per one hundred (100) cubic feet for the first 1,000 cubic feet, used through each meter each month;
Seven and three-fourths Cents (7 3/4c) per one hundred (100) cubic feet for the next 3,500 cubic feet, used through each meter each month;
Eight and one-fourth Cents (8 1/4c) per one hundred (100) cubic feet for the next 95,000 cubic feet, used through each meter each month;
Seven and one-half Cents (7 1/2c) per one hundred (100) cubic feet for all in excess of 100,000 cubic feet, used through each meter each month;

A. Minimum Charge for each customer each month of Three Dollars ($3.00) shall be made. If service under this rate schedule is discontinued at the request of customer, the Company shall not be under any obligation to resume service to the same customer on the same premises until the customer has made payment of an amount equal to the minimum monthly charge for each month of the intervening period, but not to exceed twelve (12) months.

From and after the expiration of the aforesaid One Year period and for a further period of One (1) Year thereafter, as follows:

Thirty Cents (30c) per one hundred (100) cubic feet for the first 1,000 cubic feet, used through each meter each month;
Seven and eight - tenths Cents (7 8/10c) per one hundred (100) cubic feet for the next 3,500 cubic feet, used through each meter each month;
Eight and three-tenths Cents (8 3/10c) per hundred (100) cubic feet for the next 95,000 cubic feet, used through each meter each month;
Seven and one-half Cents (7 1/2c) per one hundred (100) cubic feet for all in excess of 100,000 cubic feet, used through each meter each month;

A. Minimum Charge for each customer each month of Three Dollars ($3.00) shall be made. If service under this rate schedule is discontinued at the request of customer, the Company shall not be under any obligation to resume service to the same customer on the same premises until the customer has made payment of an amount equal to the minimum monthly charge for each month of the intervening period, but not to exceed twelve (12) months.

From and after the expiration of the aforesaid One Year period and for a further period of One (1) Year thereafter, as follows:

Thirty Cents (30c) per one hundred (100) cubic feet for the first 1,000 cubic feet, used through each meter each month;
Seven and eighty-five hundredths Cents (7 85/100c) per one hundred (100) cubic feet for the next 3,500 cubic feet, used through each meter each month;
Eight and thirty-five hundredths Cents (8 35/100c) per one hundred (100) cubic feet for the next 95,000 cubic feet, used through each meter each month;
Seven and one-half Cents (7 1/2c) per one hundred (100) cubic feet for all in excess of 100,000 cubic feet, used through each meter each month;

A. Minimum Charge for each customer each month of Three Dollars ($3.00) shall be made. If service under this rate schedule is discontinued at the request of customer, the Company shall not be under any obligation to resume service to the same customer on the same premises until the customer has made payment of an amount equal to the minimum monthly charge for each month of the intervening period, but not to exceed twelve (12) months.

From and after the expiration of the aforesaid One Year period and for a further period of One (1) Year thereafter, as follows:

Thirty Cents (30c) per one hundred (100) cubic feet for the first 1,000 cubic feet, used through each meter each month;
Seven and nine-tenths Cents (7 9/10c) per one hundred (100) cubic feet for the next 3,200 cubic feet, used through each meter each month;
Eight and one-tenth Cents (8 1/10c) per one hundred (100) cubic feet for the next 95,000 cubic feet, used through each meter each month;
Seven and one-half Cents (7 1/2c) per one hundred (100) cubic feet for all in excess of 100,000 cubic feet, used through each meter each month;

A. Minimum Charge for each customer each month of Three Dollars ($3.00) shall be made. If service under this rate schedule is discontinued at the request of customer, the Company shall not be under any obligation to resume service to the same customer on the same premises until the customer has made payment of an amount equal to the minimum monthly charge for each month of the intervening period, but not to exceed twelve (12) months.

FUEL COST CLAUSE
The service rates prescribed above are subject to an adjustment for any change in the rates paid by Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc. (Company) to The Ohio Fuel Gas Company (Ohio Fuel) for the purchase of natural gas, or for an refund or refunds received from Ohio Fuel, as hereinafter provided. The fuel cost to the Company is regulated by the Federal Power Commission.

The service rates prescribed above are predicated upon the rates paid by the Company to Ohio Fuel under the FPC CDS Rate Schedule of $2.63 per month per one thousand (1,000) cubic feet of Billing Demand and 29.48c per one thousand (1,000) cubic feet for all gas purchased, and under the FPC WS Rate Schedule of $1.01 per month per one thousand (1,000) cubic feet of Billing Demand and 1.31c per month per one thousand (1,000) cubic feet of Winter Contract Quantity. These rates are hereinafter referred to as the "base rates."

A. Purchased Gas Adjustment
When any change is made in the rates paid by the Company to Ohio Fuel, the service rates herein shall be increased or decreased in the following manner:

(1) Gas purchased by the Company during the twelve (12) month period ended with the second month preceding the month in which new rates of Ohio Fuel are first used in computing the monthly bill to the Company shall be priced:

(a) at the base rates, and
(b) at the new rates.

The difference in the cost of gas purchased, computed at the base rates and at the new rates in the manner set forth above, shall be divided by the volume of gas purchased by the Company during the same twelve (12) month period to determine the increase or decrease per one thousand (1,000) cubic feet, to the nearest one-hundredth of a cent, which shall be the "purchased gas adjustment."

(2) The service rates shall be increased or decreased by the amount of the purchased gas adjustment as determined in paragraph A (1), effective with bills rendered on and after the 30th day (the effective date) following the date on which new rates of Ohio Fuel are first used in computing the monthly bill to the Company; provided that the Company shall have filed with the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio and the Clerk of Council of the City of Circleville,

Ohio, not less than fifteen (15) days prior to the effective date, a computation in support of said purchased gas adjustment, together with a notice that such purchased gas adjustment is to be placed in effect at 12:01 A.M. on the effective date and shall apply to all bills rendered on and after that date.

B. Refund Adjustment
Whenever, during a quarterly period ending March 31, June 30, September 30 and December 31, subsequent to the effective date of this Fuel Cost Clause, the Company receives a refund or refunds from Ohio Fuel, the Company shall decrease the service rates in the following manner:

(1) Dividing such refund or refunds by the actual volumes of gas purchased during the twelve (12) month period ending with the quarter in which the refund or refunds were received. The quotient so determined to the nearest one-hundredth of a cent shall be the "refund adjustment."

(2) The service rates which would otherwise be in effect shall be decreased for a twelve (12) month period commencing on the first day of the third month (12 months) after the end of said twelve (12) months.

(3) The Company shall file with the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio and the Clerk of Council of the City of Circleville, Ohio, thirty (30) days prior to the effective date a computation in support of said refund adjustment together with a notice that the refund adjustment will be placed in effect as of 12:01 A.M. on the effective date and shall apply to all bills rendered on and after that date for a 12 month period. Such filing shall also set forth the combined effect of the current purchased gas adjustment and the refund adjustments determined, as herein provided for the next four (4) quarterly periods.

(4) Any refund adjustment, made under the Company's former fuel cost clause, which has not been in effect for twelve (12) months at the time the instant ordinance becomes effective shall continue in effect until such twelve (12) month period has been completed. The Company shall file a computation with the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio and the Clerk of Council of the City of Circleville, Ohio, in support of any refund adjustment determined under this paragraph.

SECTION 2: That it is expressly conditioned the service to be rendered by said Company, its successors or assigns, pursuant to this ordinance shall be primarily for domestic and commercial purposes and that service shall not be extended to other consumers of different classes until after all reasonable requirements for domestic and commercial purposes are fully met, and this provision shall be binding upon said Company, its successors or assigns, during each month of each year; but during any month or year, subject to the foregoing limitations and after compliance with the foregoing provisions gas may be delivered to any other consumer and additional classes of consumers at such times and under such conditions and for such rates as may be agreed upon between the Company and such consumer or consumers.

SECTION 3: That Ordinance No. 55-46 passed by the Council of the City of Circleville, Ohio, on the 6th day of September, 1966, entitled: "Ordinance No. 55-46 — Fixing and regulating the price that may be charged by Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., its successors or assigns, for natural gas to the City of Circleville, Ohio, and to its inhabitants, for the period of Four (4) Years from and after the effective date of this ordinance;" be and the same is hereby repealed.

SECTION 4: The terms and conditions of the service to be rendered shall conform with and be subject to the Rules and Regulations for furnishing gas service of the Company on file with and approved by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

SECTION 5: That the natural gas furnished or delivered pursuant to the terms of this ordinance, by the said Company, shall have an average heating value of 1,000 British thermal units per cubic foot for any consecutive twelve (12) month period subject to a variance of not more than five (5) percent upward or downward.

SECTION 6: In the event the State of Ohio, or the City of Circleville, Ohio, should hereafter impose a tax upon the Company that is not now imposed, or should hereafter increase the rate of any tax now imposed upon the Company above the tax rate now existing, other than the rate on property listed in the real estate tax list and duplicate, then the rates prescribed in Section 1 shall be increased to the extent necessary to compensate the Company for the increase in cost due to such new tax or higher tax rate. This shall be done in the following manner:

(a) If the new tax or higher tax rate is computed in direct relation to gas sold or revenue received for the sale of gas, the rates set forth herein shall be adjusted to the extent necessary to recompense the Company for the amount thereof.

(b) If the new tax or higher tax rate is not related directly to gas sold or to revenues received for the sale of gas, then the total dollar effect thereof upon the cost of serving gas by the Company in the City shall be determined, based upon operations of the Company in the City during the most recently available twelve month period ending on the last day of the December preceding the effective date of the new tax or higher tax rate; the total dollars so computed shall then be divided by the total sales made to the types of customers covered by this ordinance during the same twelve month period and the rates prescribed herein shall be correspondingly adjusted.

The adjustment of the rates prescribed in this Ordinance as provided in subparagraphs (a) and (b) above, shall be made by rounding the mathematical result of the computations so prescribed to the nearest one quarter cent (1/4c) per one thousand cubic feet.

The adjusted rate shall be placed in effect and shall apply to all meter reading occurring on and after the effective date of the statute, ordinance or resolution pursuant to which the new tax or increased tax rate is imposed.

Written notification of the adjustment shall be sent to the Clerk of the City as quickly as possible after the effect of the new tax or higher tax rate can be determined.

SECTION 7: That any ordinance or resolution, or part of an ordinance or resolution, inconsistent herewith, is, to the extent of such inconsistency, hereby repealed.

SECTION 8: That should any section or part of a section or provision of a section of this ordinance be declared void, the remainder of this ordinance shall not be affected thereby.

SECTION 9: That this ordinance shall become effective at the earliest date allowed by law, provided, however, that this ordinance shall have no force or effect whatsoever unless written acceptance of this ordinance is filed by the Company with the Clerk of Council of the City of Circleville, Ohio, prior to the expiration of thirty (30) days from the date this ordinance is passed.

Nixon Eyes Campaign Funds

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Nixon dangled the lure of a comprehensive campaign reform bill next year in an attempt to win Senate support to day of his veto of a bill to limit spending for political broadcasts.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania Sunday released a letter from the President supporting his plan to introduce a broader bill covering all news media.

In the letter, Scott said, Nixon pledged to work closely with Congress and the governors "to arrive at a bill which will deal with all problems of political campaigns, including spending limitations in direct, effective and enforceable manner...."

Speaking of the two-thirds Senate vote needed to override Nixon, Scott said it would be "as close as a senator's whisker"—within one or two votes either way.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield agreed with Scott that odds were slightly in favor of upholding the veto.

Scott and Mansfield appeared on ABC's Sunday interview program "Issues and Answers."

The Senate originally passed the bill 60 to 19. Democrats said before this afternoon's vote they were counting on 61 solid votes to override and looking for more from a block of about 10 undecided senators.

In vetoing the bill Nixon said reform should be across the board, not be limited to a single avenue of political advertising.

Nixon argued the broadcast limit might lead to increased spending as candidates shifted their advertising to other, less effective and therefore more expensive avenues to the voter.

Some Democrats have charged Nixon vetoed the measure because Republicans are in good shape financially, while Democrats are deeply in debt.

Scott said the vetoed bill discriminated against the radio and television industry, and favored incumbent candidates because it set few limitations on expenditures during primary elections.

Among proposals mentioned by Scott for his comprehensive measure were limits on campaign expenditures, a limit on campaign time and a system to allow citizens to write off political contributions as tax deductions.

Mansfield said he saw merit in a broader measure but called the vetoed bill a step in the right direction.

The vetoed bill would limit campaign broadcast spending to seven cents for each vote cast for the office involved in the prior election, or $20,000, whichever was higher.

It would cover candidates for president, vice president, Senate, House, governor and lieutenant governor.

Those provisions, if they became effective for the 1972 presidential campaign, would limit each party to about $5.1 million worth of radio and television campaign time.

The vetoed bill also would waive equal time requirements, permitting televised debates between the two major party presidential candidates.

In the House, where a two-thirds vote also would be needed to override, Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan has announced he will support the bill.

Air Quality Standards Still Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Proposed statewide air quality standards are expected to come under renewed fire today from industry spokesmen at open hearings before the Ohio Air Pollution Control Board.

Industry representatives said Monday the proposed July 1, 1973, compliance date for air quality standards was "unreasonable."

The board has suggested that standards now applied to specific urban regions in the state be broadened to include the rest of Ohio.

Current standards deal only with the control of particulates and sulfur dioxide in the air.

If statewide standards are adopted, they will be expanded to include controls for carbon monoxide, photo chemical oxidants and hydrocarbons, according to the board.

Frank C. Manak, general attorney for the U.S. Steel Corp., was the first to call the 1973 target date "unreasonable," and said the "problem of developing and installing pollution control facilities is time consuming."

"Even if it were possible to eliminate all of the pollutants emanating from steel making facilities, there is still a good chance urban steel making areas would not be able to achieve the proposed particulate matter air quality standards," Manak said.

Nantucket, the summer home of Washington lawyers, Boston bankers, Cleveland industrialists, and New York advertising men, not to mention 3,900 permanent residents, originally was inhabited by Wampanoag Indians. The 12-by-6-mile island was bought by 17th-century settlers for 30 English pounds and two beaver hats.

The adjustment of the rates prescribed in this Ordinance as provided in subparagraphs (a) and (b) above, shall be made by rounding the mathematical result of the computations so prescribed to the nearest one quarter cent (1/4c) per one thousand cubic feet.

The adjusted rate shall be placed in effect and shall apply to all meter reading occurring on and after the effective date of the statute, ordinance or resolution pursuant to which the new tax or increased tax rate is imposed.

Written notification of the adjustment shall be sent to the Clerk of the City as quickly as possible after the effect of the new tax or higher tax rate can be determined.

SECTION 7: That any ordinance or resolution, or part of an ordinance or resolution, inconsistent herewith, is, to the extent of such inconsistency, hereby repealed.

SECTION 8: That should any section or part of a section or provision of a section of this ordinance be declared void, the remainder of this ordinance shall not be affected thereby.

Firemen In Dual Roles

Many suggestions to cope with the growing shortage of medical personnel in the United States have been offered. Usually they involve the introduction of some new type of medical technician — perhaps a junior doctor with two years of training instead of the usual four or six, or perhaps a nurse with a year or two more training than she usually receives.

Behind these suggestions is the knowledge that much routine medical care is requiring the valuable time of doctors when persons with less training could handle such cases capably, if such personnel were available.

Inglewood, Calif., is engaged in an experiment in emergency aid treatment for heart attack victims which goes far beyond this concept. Firemen and other non-medical personnel have been given special training in this particular type of emergency and empowered by law to use drugs and special equipment normally found only in a hospital emergency room to treat heart attack victims on the scene.

Acting as a sort of extension of professional hospital staffs, the rescue teams do not diagnose the cases nor prescribe treatment. Sophisticated mobile units accompany the men and radio back to the hospital such important data as electrocardiographs. A physician at the hospital analyzes the data and informs the team of the measures to take.

A cardiologist who is the innovator of the program estimates that since Sept. 2 when it was inaugurated at least 40 heart victims have been saved who otherwise would not have made it to the hospital.

He estimates that if the program could be expanded to the entire Los Angeles area, between 5,000 and 10,000 deaths could be averted annually.

This obviously is a radical departure from conventional medical services. It is equally apparent that in this one type of emergency, in which immediate attention is required by many of the victims, conventional practitioners and facilities are not always available in time.

However unique the procedure may be, it is the saving of lives which counts.

Asian Surpluses

A surplus of rice in Asia? After centuries of worry about producing sufficient quantities of the grain for its expanding population, the continent is reaching the point of a remarkable turnaround.

Japan no longer knows what to do with all the rice it is harvesting. Last year it lent South Korea 333,000 tons, to be paid back over the next 30 years interest-free.

The island nation still has 32,000 storage bins filled with rice and it is considering using abandoned mines and old air raid shelters to store other surpluses.

Researchers are trying to find ways of converting some of the growing stockpiles into products such as cosmetics and photographic film. The same story, in less dramatic form, is appearing elsewhere in Asia. The Philippines have become self-sufficient in rice for the first time since 1903.

Even war-torn South Vietnam expects to be able to export rice next year. New hybrid grains, which produce three or four times as much as the old varieties, are the reason for Asia's growing bounty. This is good news from an area that has had little to crow about for a long time.

Convenience for Many

With Christmas displays and decorations already in evidence, complaints will be heard soon that commercialism is destroying the meaning of the event. There is another side.

The exchange of gifts among friends and relatives is a long established part of the Christmas tradition. If done in good taste and with sincere thought for the recipient, it can only embrace the joyous spirit of the holiday.

By providing shoppers ample time to select their purchases in comfort and leisure, and without the last minute crush of crowds, commercial establishments also contribute to a more enjoyable occasion.

Who would have it otherwise?

According To Boyle

By JEFFREY D. ALDERMAN (For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — A lot of people wonder why Bird Thompson and Izzie McCarthy don't speak to each other.

After careful research, which included interviews with many of their closest friends, I have been able to reconstruct the events that led to their now 21-year-old feud.

Come with me to the year 1949. The place: the playground behind the Highland Grammar School in Holyoke, Mass.

It was time for the annual school marble championship. The rules: no "fudging." The stakes: Bird Thompson's collection of jumbo glassies against Izzie McCarthy's pure yellows.

The playing field had been carefully laid out before school that morning. A piece of gold chalk, borrowed from Miss Shea's fifth grade chalk box, outlined the five-foot circular playing area. A hole had been dug in the center, carved out of the tar with a stick.

Bird was then a fifth-grader. Izzie McCarthy was a fourth-grader.

At last the bell rang for recess and a crowd—boys only, of course—gathered around the marble hole.

The object was to knock as many of your opponent's marbles into the hole as you could, while preventing him from knocking any of yours in. If you shot one of your own in, it counted for your opponent. The man who knocked all his opponent's marbles in first, won.

Each of the players took out 10 marbles and dropped them from a standing position into the playing area.

The game went on. Finally it came down to two marbles left and Bird's turn.

The crowd hushed. It was a difficult shot. Bird's glassy was near the edge of the circle; Izzie's yellow, half way between the circle and the pot.

Bird rubbed his Sky King membership card for good luck. He shot hard and the marble sped across the playing area. It smashed into Izzie's yellow with such force that both marbles split in two. Two pieces of each marble fell dead in place, but the other two pieces skittered into the pot.

"I win," cried Bird.

"You do not," retorted Izzie. The schoolyard was in an uproar. Because nothing like that had ever happened before, there was no rule to cover it. Not even Horace could decide.

The matter, therefore, was never resolved and to this day Bird Thompson and Izzie McCarthy aren't speaking.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

The Christmas Gift Exchange List

DEAR ABBY: Can you tell me how to go about putting a stop to exchanging Christmas gifts with people we hardly ever see? I don't mean relatives, I mean out-of-towners who used to be neighbors, and who had children who had children who were friendly with our children (all grown now) and folks we are no longer close to.

Shopping, wrapping and mailing Christmas presents has gotten to be a real chore, and I am not as young as I used to be. I would just as soon get off a lot of people's lists and take them off mine, and if the truth were known, I'm sure they feel the same way about it, but don't know how to get off mine. So how do I get off this merry-go-round, Abby? I would just as soon send Christmas cards to a couple of dozen people who are still on my Christmas gift list. Thanks from...

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

DEAR CHICAGO: Around Thanksgiving time write a nice note to those folks you'd like to take off the "gift list" and put on the "card list"—and tell them you are "thankful" for friends with whom you can be perfectly frank. Tell them that year along with trimming your Christmas tree you are trimming your "gift" list and are sending cards instead. And unless they're dense and insensitive they'll appreciate your sensible and practical attitude and will reciprocate accordingly.

DEAR ABBY: My father chews tobacco and makes it a habit to spit in the kitchen sink where I wash the dishes. I know it's not sanitary and sometimes I fuss at him and tell him so. Then my mother gets mad at me and blesses me out. Is there some help for my problem?

ONLY A CHILD
DEAR ONLY: Even though your father needs to be told, it's extremely difficult for a child to tell him. You don't say how old you are, but if he continues that disgusting habit much longer, save up for a spittoon to wash the dishes in.

DEAR ABBY: I work in an office with several men and women. Whenever a certain man in the office gets near me, my foot starts tapping. This doesn't happen with any of the other men. It is very embarrassing as I was not aware of this until this man asked me why I always tapped my foot whenever he gets near me. Even now, being aware of it, I find myself doing it, unconsciously.

This man is very good looking and has a charming manner, and all the girls in the office light up when they see him coming, but I am the only one who does any tapping. What is the matter with me?

TOE TAPPER
DEAR TAPPER: "Toe-tapping" implies "impatience." What are you waiting for?
DEAR ABBY: Please tell Michigan Mother to speak only for herself. I have 14 children. The youngest is seven months and the oldest is 18. If the good Lord sends me more, I will gladly accept them. He never gives us a heavier load than we can carry.

MISSISSIPPI MOTHER
DEAR ABBY: I agree with Michigan Mother. Raising children is a thankless job. If my children had asked to be born, knowing what I know today, I would have answered, "NO."

"HAD IT" IN SEATTLE
DEAR ABBY: After last year's discussions of mimeographed Christmas letters, bragging about everything from Junior's football letter to Mom's new mink stole, I thought enough had been said. Not so.

This year we already received a Christmas card, which was a color photograph of Junior's new automobile parked in front of "our new home." That's hard to beat!

Sign me:
"RATHER SEE YOUR KIDS"
P. S.: Seven years ago you advised me to marry the young minister I loved, although my mother was sure I would regret it. (Ministers don't make very much money.) Now, six years and two wonderful children later, I want to thank you for your advice. I never knew I could be so happy.

Solons Attack Bombing Of North

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. decision to bomb anti-aircraft sites deep in North Vietnam has drawn intensive criticism from congressional doves already seeking to reopen a policy debate over President Nixon's Southeast Asia program.

With many Senate Democrats still ranked over Nixon's request last week for $155 million in new aid for Cambodia, Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said Sunday the 30 hours of weekend raids points to an increased, not lesser, American role in Indochina.

"I think it (the bombing) means a recommitment, even if it is only on a temporary basis," the Montana Democrat declared. "I think it could well stiffen the spine of Hanoi and I think it could well retard negotiations in Paris."

In disclosing the raids Saturday, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said the planes—some 200 of them, sources have reported—conducted "limited duration protective reaction strikes" against North Vietnamese missile and anti-aircraft installations to answer "attacks on our unarmed reconnaissance aircraft."

Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott, Mansfield's Republican counterpart who earlier asserted Democratic attacks on Nixon's Cambodia aid plan were motivated by 1972 presidential politics, made a strong defense of the bombings.

"We have had men killed in unarmed reconnaissance planes," Scott said Sunday. "I would expect that there would be considerable concern over our dead in this matter and the obligation of the United States to redress that kind of wrong." The Pennsylvania senator added "I do not look for continuous bombing...." He also expressed skepticism that the raids would affect the moribund peace talks in Paris.

Both senators appeared Sunday on ABC's "Issues and Answers" interview broadcast.

In touching on the Cambodia aid proposal, Mansfield declined to characterize the growing Democratic criticism of the plan along with the bombing as an effort to bring about a coalition.

But, he said, "I am not at all happy about getting involved in a new economic aid program with Indonesia, because I think it is only the start...."

"It will mean military and economic missions and it seems to me possibly to be a repetition of the old pattern in Vietnam."

In another development Sunday, Pentagon sources said the major reason behind the weekend raids was to "remind the other guy what the rules of the game are, whether he understands them or not. Whether he understands them is not particularly important. The signal is the thing," an indication the reconnaissance flights would go on.

The reference was to an understanding between the United States and Hanoi, said to have been made when former President Lyndon Johnson stopped the bombing of the North just a little more than two years ago.

Hanoi has constantly denied the existence of any agreement not to fire on U.S. reconnaissance planes in exchange for the bombing halt, a position supported somewhat by Mansfield.

When asked if he thought there was no such understanding, Mansfield replied:

"That is correct. I am assuming that the administration at that time assumed there was an understanding. But there was nothing... which would substantiate a definitive understanding."

On another point brought up by North Vietnamese claims and backed by a French news agency reporter in Hanoi that the American planes hit targets close to Hanoi, Scott again stated what Laird had said earlier.

"I am satisfied that we did not bomb that far north. I have asked the question," he said, "I have been advised that we did not."

As he did on essentially every point, Mansfield disagreed with Scott and Laird on still another controversy resulting from the bombings—whether they also were aimed at North Vietnamese supply points.

"I think that was probably part of the reasoning, in addition to the knocking down of an unarmed reconnaissance plane," the Democratic leader stated.

Supreme Court Says Guilty Pleas Must Be Accepted

WASHINGTON (AP) — On a 6-3 vote the Supreme Court Monday directed trial judges to accept guilty pleas from defendants who protest that they are really innocent and pleaded guilty only to avoid a trial and a probably stiffer sentence.

The ruling, in a North Carolina case, resolves a dispute among state and federal courts by rejecting the notion such guilty pleas are involuntary and thus invalid.

"The Constitution does not bar imposition of a prison sentence upon an accused who is unwilling expressly to admit his guilt but who, faced with grim alternatives, is willing to waive his trial and accept the sentence," said Justice Byron R. White for the majority.

In other actions Monday, the Supreme Court:

—Let stand a ruling that no photograph of the female anatomy can be held obscene, whatever the pose, so long as sexual activity is not depicted.

—Let stand a ruling that tenants have a right to withhold rents if landlords fail to keep their apartments in decent condition. The ruling, by the U.S. Circuit Court for the District of Columbia, applies only to the capital.

The guilty plea ruling reverses the U.S. Circuit Court in Richmond, Va., in the December 1963 case of Henry C. Alford, who pleaded guilty in the slaying of Nathaniel Young of Forsyth County, N.C., and was sentenced to 30 years in prison.

While pleading guilty to second degree murder Alford protested his innocence.

Alford had been indicted for first-degree murder.

Had he gone to trial and been convicted he could have been sentenced to death. Had he pleaded guilty to first-degree murder he could have been sentenced to life in prison. By pleading guilty to second-degree murder he faced a maximum sentence of 30 years in prison.

Ohio Pollution Standards Draw Fire

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's proposed air quality standards drew fire from a steel company and support from conservationists and health groups as a public hearing on the standards opened here Monday.

The Ohio Air Pollution Control Board called the hearing on a proposal to extend air quality standards already in effect in five Ohio areas to the remainder of the state. It also would establish standards for several additional types of pollution.

The plan came under attack by Frank C. Manna of the U.S. Steel Corp., who said the proposed two and one-half year target date for implementing the standards was "unreasonable."

He said it is unrealistic to set standards for the entire state that today can be met by only 8 of the 57 major urban areas in the United States.

Dr. Owen Davies of Lakewood spokesman for the Ohio Audubon Council, urged the deadline for meeting the proposed standards be moved from July 1, 1973, the date now proposed, to Jan. 1, 1972.

Davies said the state's plant and animal life is in "serious trouble" because of air pollution. He cited beech trees that he said are seriously threatened by automobile pollution.

U.S. Manpower In Vietnam Dips

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced Monday a drop in American troop strength in South Vietnam of 3,800 men, reducing the total still here to 360,000.

The present level is the lowest in four years. American troop strength in November 1966 during the big American buildup stood at 359,400.

Under the fifth phase of the U.S. withdrawal program, troop strength is scheduled to drop to 344,000 by the end of this year.

Foresters Give Program For Junior Women's Club

Circleville Junior Women's Club held its November meeting at the home of Mrs. Richard Schmachtenberger, 2 Bristol Court, Knollwood Village. Preceding the meeting, Mr. Schmachtenberger, Service Forester for the State of Ohio, presented a film called "The Man in Green." Mr. Schmachtenberger and Mr. James Lenox, District Forester for the State of Ohio, conducted a question and answer period following the film.

Showers Fete

Bride-Elect

College friends of Miss Stephanie Snyder of Canton, bride-elect of Lt. William A. Dore of Ashville, attended a personal shower in her honor Sunday. Hosting the event were the honor attendant, Miss Vivienne Moyer and Mrs. Larry Mickle, a bridesmaid, in the latter's home, Athens.

Other parties given in honor of Miss Snyder included a shower hosted by the groom's aunt, Miss Helen Bowers, in her home, Columbus. The guests who presented the bride-to-be with gifts of linen enjoyed an original bridal game devised by the hostess.

On Nov. 8, Mrs. Charles W. Snyder Jr. of Baltic, entertained for her niece in the home of Mrs. C. W. Snyder Sr., Canton. Again, as in the instance of entertainment in Miss Bower's home when the groom's family met to honor Miss Snyder, the guests comprised three generations of members of the family. A highlight of the afternoon was the surprise appearance of the groom who had arrived early from his assignment at Fort Sill, Okla.

Miss Snyder's co-workers on the staff of the physical education department in the Bedford Schools where she is a student teacher, turned an area association meeting into a surprise shower in her honor on Nov. 17.

The wedding of Miss Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Snyder, Canton and Lt. William A. Dore, son of Mrs. Georgia Dore, Ashville and Mr. Felix Dore, La Fayette, La., will be an event of Nov. 28 at 6:30 p.m. in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Canton. The English custom of open church will be observed for the candlelight ceremony.

order and introduced Mayor Richard Gerhardt to the members and guests. Mayor Gerhardt presented a film concerning "Mini Parks." These parks are small plots of land within city limits that are cleared and converted into playgrounds. A question and answer period followed the film.

Mrs. Holycross introduced Mrs. Gary Weaver as a guest for the evening.

Mrs. Robert Ogden, chairman of the ways and means committee, reported that the Pumpkin Show Booth had exceeded its sales of pumpkin pie of any preceding year. She also thanked members for their participation and co-operation during the Pumpkin Show.

Mrs. Thomas Williams, chairman of the senior citizens committee, reported that plans were nearing completion for Christmas visitation of former residents of the Pickaway County Home for the Elderly. She requested that members meet at her home, 496 Edwards Road at 6:30 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 10 for assignment of transportation to the various nursing homes.

Mrs. Wayne Hatfield reported that the membership had successfully completed the project to enlarge the Block Mother Program to include the High Street School District.

Robert Goodsmann requested volunteers to aid in the Cancer Clinic at Berger Hospital.

Mrs. Walter Wheatley requested clothing and volunteer workers for the PICCA Day Care Center. She also asked that anyone wishing to volunteer contact Mrs. Alton Carithers at 474-7411 between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Mrs. Robert Ogden reported that suggestions were being accepted for activities for the Annual February Husbands' Night.

Mrs. Holycross then announced that Mrs. Robert Doll had been appointed chairman of the public affairs committee and adjourned the meeting.

Cohostesses for the evening were Mrs. Thomas Fitzgerald, Mrs. Robert Goodsmann and Mrs. Jerry D. Jones.

Thanksgiving Theme Used By GOP Boosters

Miss Lucille Dumm, 340 Walnut St. was hostess to members of GOP Booster Club in her home Friday evening. She was assisted by Mrs. Roy Dumm.

A dinner preceded the meeting and decorations were in keeping with the Thanksgiving theme.

Mrs. John Steinhauer led the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America. The remainder of the evening was spent with traditional readings on Thanksgiving and highlights of past meetings of the club.

Games were played and prizes given to Mrs. Steinhauer, Mrs. Roger Jury and Mrs. Wayne Stonerock. Mrs. Irvin Smith won the door prize.

Names were drawn for the Christmas gift exchange and Mrs. Roger Jury, 514 N. Court St. will be hostess for the annual Christmas party to be held in her home Dec. 18 at 6:30 p.m.

MONEY TREE — Once again the Money Tree raffled in conjunction with the annual Christmas Bazaar sponsored by the Guilds of Berger Hospital will be a main attraction. The tree will be on display in a window at Sharff's until the day of the bazaar, Dec. 4 at St. Philip's Episcopal Church Parish House. Shown holding the tree at the left is Mrs. Michael Bruno with Mrs. Anthony Regen on the right.

Ingathering Conducted By Pythian Sisters

Circleville Pythian Sisters of Majors Temple 516 met Thursday evening in the K of P Hall for a regular meeting. Most Excellent Chief, Elma L. Rains, presided during the ritualistic work and the business meeting.

The meeting was Ingathering Night for the Medina Home. Instead of the usual contributions of canned foods members voted to purchase a quantity of one or two specific items that are especially needed at the Home. Any member not present at the meeting who desires to contribute to this project may do so at the next meeting or by contacting the secretary or treasurer, Mrs. William H. Bosworth at Circleville Realty, 132 W. Main Street or Mrs. Gerald Winifough, Route 4.

During the business meeting the first nomination of officers for the coming year was held. The second nominations and elections of officers will be held at the Dec. 3 meeting. Members were reminded that 1971 dues are payable at this time.

The most excellent chief reported on the District Convention which was held at Amanda on November 16. Friendship Night will again be observed in the district with Majors Temple 516 entertaining members of Red Rose Temple 206 and Red Rose members will entertain members of Majors Temple. Ashville Temple has extended an invitation to serve as host to the District 2 Convention in 1971.

The most excellent chief appointed the refreshment committee for the next meeting as Mrs. Robert Eccard, chairman; Mrs. Ellen Camp, Mrs. Lucille Bosworth, Mrs. Virginia Strawser and Harry Strawser.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Robert Burton, Mrs. Goldie Lindsey, Mrs. William Hall, Mrs. Milton Griest and Mrs. Robert West.

If you store tomatoes that aren't fully ripe in the refrigerator, the cold temperature may keep them from ripening later on. Let the tomatoes ripen in a warm place and then refrigerate them.

Pickaway Social Club Has Thanksgiving Program

The regular November meeting of the Pickaway Social Club was held from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. at Trinity Lutheran Parish House Thursday, with 43 old and new members present. The morning period was spent visiting and doing handwork. Four pieced and knotted wool coverlets were completed and have been presented to the Picca Day Care Centers for the use by the children when they take naps in the afternoons. The Social Club members also enjoyed seeing the children at noon as all of them from both Day Care Centers eat their lunch in Trinity Parish House each day.

In the afternoon a business meeting was held during which it was decided to have a carry-in dinner for the Christmas meeting on Dec. 17. This is a week early since the regular meeting date would fall on the day before Christmas. Those attending are to bring their own table service and some type of food, and a guest, if possible. A white elephant gift exchange is planned also, and the program will feature a singing group, stories and poems to be brought and read by the members, carol singing and just a general good time. No work will be done that day. The meeting time will be 11:30 a.m. rather than the earlier time usually observed. The committee appointed to make the necessary preparations included Mrs. Ruth Miranda, Mrs. Louise Heine, Miss Adella Huffman and Mrs. Pauline Jones.

A short Thanksgiving program included singing some appropriate hymns, accompanied at the piano by Beanie Pierce and Mrs. Faye Fausaugh. Some of those present related special memories they have of former Thanksgivings. A poem, "O Father, Thou Who givest all" by John Haynes Holmes, was read by Mrs. Ruby Wallon. Mrs. Twyla Lorenz read an article about the Geneva Bible which was the particular translation which was found in the home of every Pilgrim family during the time they were struggling to survive in the new world. All problems which arose, either in the community or in the individuals in the families were decided by referring to the Scriptures. The final authority was "thus saith the Lord". The Geneva Bible was so-called because it was translated and printed in Geneva, Switzerland, by several well-qualified scholars who had also left England, seeking religious freedom. Sometimes it is flippanantly called the "breeches" Bible since, in the book of Genesis, where former versions referred to Adam and Eve, after they had sinned in the Garden of Eden, as having taken fig leaves and sewed aprons for themselves, the Geneva Bible says "they made themselves breeches". It is indicative of the strict moral standards the early Pilgrims set for themselves. They observed no religious festivals as gay affairs, since they could find no Biblical basis for such celebrations.

The afternoon program concluded when all sang, "How Great Thou art". The singing was led by Mrs. Ruth Miranda who also read a closing prayer poem, "We thank thee, Lord", and the group prayed the "Lord's Prayer".

Some of the members remained for a while to play cards. They are still looking for some people who would like to play pinochle.

The Pickaway Social Club is for anyone who would like to come to have a pleasant time with other people. Anyone, regardless of age, race, creed or sex is most welcome. There are no dues. Financing is taken care of by a free-will offering at each meeting. Most meetings are just a day of informal talking, getting acquainted with new friends and renewing old friendships. Those who enjoy sewing or doing some kind of craft may do so, but many prefer just to visit or play some sort of game. For more information or for making transportation arrangements call Mrs. M. D. Lorentz at 474-9064.

Newcomers Club

Members Model

For Style Show

Circleville Newcomer's Club held its November meeting at the First Presbyterian Church Wednesday evening. The program included a style show. Fashions, provided by the Charm-In, were modeled by club members and assisted by employees of the dress shop. Those present were able to view a wide range of fashions from pants suits to party dresses and wigs. Models were Carol Rorick, Linda Pendick, Sharron Wheatly, Marcella Dickerhote, Merry Anderson, Liz Barton, Carol Suhajda, Polly Fronk, Lynne Bushyager, Judy Jones and Shirley Neeson.

After the style show a Talent Auction was held. Members and guests were able to bid on items handmade by club members. Among many of the items auctioned were candle holders, Barbie Doll clothes, fudge, a personal pillow, and various Christmas arrangements and ornaments. Auctioneer was Georgann Butler. Proceeds of the auction went toward defraying club expenses.

A short business meeting and refreshments were included in the evening's activities.

A Christmas program is scheduled for the December meeting. Anyone interested in joining Newcomers may call Connie Sherman at 474-8385 for further information.

Personals

Week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott Hayes, Tammy and Scott of Route 4, were Wayne and Arnold Jividen and Roger White of Gallipolis, Mr. and Mrs. Dann Morrow, Washington D. C. and Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Creager and Bryan of Laureville.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Diehl, Dunkle Road, have as their Thanksgiving holiday guests their sons, Lt. William H. Diehl, USAF, Duluth, Minn., and Philip H. Diehl, Ohio University, Athens. On Friday, Lt. Diehl will be going to his new assignment at Homestead Air Force Base, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Hukill of 916 Lincoln Drive, were the weekend guests of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Baillie and her father, William Jech of Cleveland. Guests at Sunday dinner included their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Hukill, her brother and family and nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Ruth Hukill and Mrs. Mary Simmons, registered nurses employed at Berger Hospital, attended a seminar at Imperial House, Columbus, recently. It was sponsored by the Central Ohio Heart Assn. and was concerned with cardio pulmonary resuscitation. The main speaker was Dr. Dembo who is head of the cardiac care unit at Maryland General Hospital and president of Maryland Heart Assn.

Woman Becomes Lutheran Minister; Pushes Change

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — "It's just the life-style I have chosen," said the Rev. Elizabeth A. Platz after she became the first woman Lutheran minister in America.

The new minister, ordained Sunday in a ceremony at the University of Maryland chapel, said her new role is not a blow for women's liberation and that she did not seek the ministry to prove a woman could succeed in this field.

The Rev. Miss Platz, a 30-year-old, curly-haired brunette who has served for five years as assistant Lutheran chaplain at the university, approached the altar clad in a simple, white robe.

30 Per Cent Of Students Receiving 'Calming' Drugs?

WASHINGTON (AP) — As many as 30 per cent of the children in some elementary schools may be receiving drugs to quiet them down, a government investigator told Congress Monday.

"This is a sober estimate I have heard," Dr. Leo E. Hollister, a medical investigator for the Veterans Administration, said in testimony prepared for a Senate subcommittee beginning four days of hearings on government drug-buying practices.

Overactive children used to be thought suffering from a small degree of brain damage that was undetectable clinically, he added.

"That a disorder usually believed to be relatively a common should suddenly become a major affliction of childhood is a mystifying matter," he said.

"The normal exuberance of childhood now seems to be viewed as pathological," he said. "In any case, large numbers of children are being treated with stimulants—usually methylphenidate, as amphetamines have a bad name at present—for a questionable diagnosis."

He also said the Defense Department is buying large supplies of the drug methylphenidate. These purchases, he added, "undoubtedly... reflect a major use in dependent children."

Although the drug was introduced about 14 years ago presumably as a new type of stimulant but less potent than amphetamines, he said, sales were disappointing. They began soaring about two years ago, Hollister noted, after nationally published magazine articles described stimulants as beneficial in treating hyperactive children.

Medical authorities say some drugs which stimulate adults have a reverse effect which helps calm overactive children.

Some authorities told a House subcommittee recently that drugs are an accepted way to treat a nervous disorder known as hyperkinesis—which has excessive activity and inability to concentrate as its main symptoms.

But Secretary of Welfare Elliot L. Richardson has said behavior-modifying drugs are not necessarily the best method of treating overactive school children, adding that other effective treatment includes remedial education, family counseling and psychotherapy.

Viets Oust U.S. Newsman

SAIGON (AP) — A government spokesman said Monday that American newsman Michael D. Morrow is being expelled from South Vietnam "because he was involved in internal political activities."

The spokesman said Morrow, of Dispatch News Service International, was given an exit visa to leave for Phnom Penh, Cambodia. He is expected to leave today.

The spokesman refused to discuss Morrow's alleged involvement in Vietnamese politics, but informed sources said the government refused to extend his visa because he recently spoke before a Vietnamese peace group and expressed his opposition to U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Morrow, 24, had been in Vietnam more than two years and had many contacts with both government and anti-government groups.

The U.S. Embassy took up Morrow's expulsion with the South Vietnamese government, but informed sources said it was given the same explanation Morrow and the press received. The embassy decided not to protest the government's decision.

Urge Revamped Higher Education

By DOUG WILLIS
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Study for a bachelor's degree should be reduced to three years by having college-level courses taught in high school, the Carnegie Foundation Commission on Higher Education recommends.

The one-year reduction would save colleges $3.5 billion to $5 billion a year, the commission said in a 55-page report issued Monday.

Commission Chairman Clark Kerr, former president of the University of California, said the report seeks to correct the "aimlessness of what is now called general education" and to meet the needs of older students, women and minorities.

"We think too much time is being spent by young people in higher education," Kerr said. "We think that the high schools can take on a good deal more than they are now doing."

Kerr said the report was approved unanimously by the 15-member commission of educators and industrialists which includes five university presidents.

"Students should be given the option of taking some time off before or during college without being called dropouts or failures," Kerr said. "Our GIs came back to school and turned out to be some of the best students we ever had."

The commission also recommends that all high school graduates, regardless of grades, be able to attend two years of college or vocational school at any time of their lives.

The commission said an "educational security" program might be added to Social Security, to be paid through payroll taxes on employers and employees.

The commission also recommended:

—Granting of more academic credit for nonacademic job training, regardless of the student's age.

—Establishment of two new graduate degrees, master of philosophy and doctor of the arts.

—Creation of more short-term college programs, night and summer courses for which degrees or certificates would be awarded.

—Less reliance by employers on degrees and more on new testing and interview techniques.

The report is one of a series financed by a $5 million grant from the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Views On TV-Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Lucille Ball was Jack Benny's guest star on his special last week. This week Jack returned the visit. In the glittering echelons of television, stars are more likely to swap guest shots than work for salaries.

Benny's outing on "Here's Lucy" Monday was neither Miss Ball's finest hour nor Benny's. But two skillful professionals injected some comedy magic into rather obvious situations. Lucy was sent to Benny's house for some secretarial work, which turned out to be an account of the women in Jack's life. The rest was flashbacks, with Lucille playing all the women including his mother.

Arte Johnson's march jokes about Lucy, made on "Laugh-In" when her NBC competition was at the top of the ratings seemed to be gloating. Now they have a hollow sound since Lucy has bounced back to the top segment of the popularity chart. Her show is sixth in the latest Nielsen ratings, while "Laugh-In" is 14th.

"Coogan's Bluff," a two-year-old theatrical film, was NBC's Monday night movie broadcast, a well-done police story with a wild motorcycle chase for a climax. It was of interest for a couple of reasons.

The story, about a tough, cool Arizona deputy sheriff in New York to return a prisoner, was the inspiration for the six-part "McCloud" series. "Four-in-One" series. But where Coogan played with stony face and few words by Clint Eastwood, suggested ice and steel, Dennis Weaver's McCloud was a gentle, almost diffident man. And the rough edges were smoothed off for TV.

In its original form, "Coogan's Bluff" was an extremely violent film with explicit sex scenes. A notice at the beginning of the television broadcast noted it had been "revised and edited."

The explicit scenes were, of course, out, but much that remained was implicit. Judging from the jumpiness and short takes, two fight scenes seemed to have been cut sharply.

The final product suggested that a perceptive film editor can turn a theatrical shocker into something close to family entertainment without much injury to the story.

It will be interesting to see what is done by the educational network to the motion picture version of Peter Weiss' "Marat-Sade" when it is broadcast Dec. 10. The play was considered daring because of its nudity and strong language.

Most popular television programs during the week ending Nov. 15 were ABC's "Marcus Welby, M.D." and the "Movie of the Week" production called "Tribes," followed by CBS's "Gunsmoke."

Ky Arrives Quietly In U.S. For Meeting With President

WASHINGTON (AP) — South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky's quiet arrival for today's White House meeting with President Nixon came in sharp contrast to the shouted protests that resulted in the cancellation of an earlier trip to Washington.

Following the White House breakfast session, Ky's schedule had him seeing Henry Kissinger, top White House adviser on national security matters, followed by a rare session with newsmen.

Although several antiwar groups announced plans to demonstrate against Ky's appearance at the National Press Club, advance criticism fell far short of the uproar of the aborted earlier visit.

Ky, his wife and small official party arrived at nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Md., Monday after a weekend in Williamsburg, Va.

Because the Washington visit is a private one, no U.S. officials were on hand to greet the Ky party. Madame Ky was presented roses by Madame Bui Diem, wife of the Vietnamese ambassador.

Ky arrived in the capital about the time Defense Department officials were disclosing U.S. forces had raided an abandoned prisoner-of-war camp near Hanoi in North Vietnam.

An aide to Ky said the vice president was taken by surprise by the disclosure.

Ky had accepted an invitation from the Rev. Carl McIntire to attend a "march for victory" rally here last Oct. 3. However, he canceled the visit after several congressmen and antiwar leaders protested.

McIntire, a New Jersey evangelist, accused the Nixon administration of "high level international blackmail" in pressuring Ky to cancel out.

Ky has spent much of the past week touring U.S. military bases.

He will be the guest of Secretary of State William P. Rogers at a State Department luncheon Wednesday, will spend Thanksgiving Day at the Vietnam Embassy and will entertain a group of American generals Friday.

Ky will depart for the West coast en route to Saigon Dec. 1, the day after a formal State Department dinner arranged by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew in Ky's honor.

House Eyes Job Safety

WASHINGTON (AP) — A labor-management struggle, already fought out in the Senate, opened in the House today as the administration sought to amend the first nationwide job safety bill.

As approved by the House Education and Labor Committee, the labor-supported bill directs the secretary of labor to set, monitor and enforce safety standards for about 80 million workers.

But Reps. William A. Steiger, R-Wis., and Robert Sikes, D-Fla., put together the White House-backed substitute package calling for a five-member board to handle safety standards and a three-member appeals commission appointed by the president.

Industry and business also supported the substitute, saying the original bill gave too much power to the secretary of labor and failed to protect property rights.

The Senate, drawing on suggestions from both organized labor and the administration, passed a bill last week directing the secretary of labor to set safety standards within two years but puts enforcement in the hands of a three-member presidential commission.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official weather bureau summary for Ohio:

Residents of the snow belt of northeastern Ohio were digging themselves out from under the first snow storm of winter early today.

A blanket of snow 4-12 inches deep covered the area from the eastern portions of Cleveland through the northern tier of counties to the Pennsylvania line.

In some parts of northern Geauga County as much as 18 inches of snow was reported on the ground.

Other sections of the state, however, reported only light snow flurries. Temperature readings ranged from 13 at Dayton and Zanesville to 20 at Akron-Canton early today.

The snows will stop over Ohio by tonight but are expected to return Wednesday and turn to rain Thursday.

A warming trend will begin Thursday and continue for the rest of the week with daytime readings climbing into the 40s and 50s by week's end.

FORECASTS

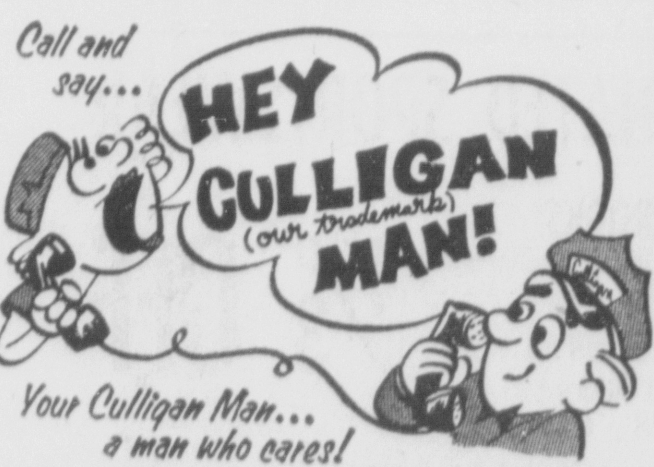

OHIO — Variable cloudiness and cold tonight, lows 10 to 18. Cloudy and not as cold Wednesday with a chance of snow north and rain or snow south spreading eastward over the state by evening. Highs Wednesday in the 20s and low 30s.

NORTHWEST INLAND, WEST LAKE SHORE — Mostly cloudy and cold tonight, lows in the upper teens. Cloudy and not as cold with a chance of light snow Wednesday, highs in the mid and upper 20s Thursday, rain or snow changing to rain and warmer.

WEST CENTRAL, SOUTHWEST — Mostly cloudy tonight, lows in the upper teens. Cloudy and not as cold Wednesday with a chance of snow probably mixed with rain or sleet, highs in the upper 20s and low 30s. Thursday, showers and warmer.

CENTRAL AND SOUTHEAST — Variable cloudiness and cold tonight, low in the teens. Mostly cloudy and not as cold Wednesday with a chance of rain or snow by afternoon or evening. Highs Wednesday in the upper 20s and low 20s Thursday, showers and warmer.

See Ohio Demo Hassle For Leadership Posts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A two-way fight for a minority leadership in the Ohio House of Representatives was expected today at a Democratic party caucus.

Republicans Monday unanimously reelected their old leadership for the 19th General Assembly, which convenes Jan. 4.

Charles F. Kurfess of Perryburg was renamed House Speaker.

er; Charles E. Fry of Springfield, speaker pro tem; Robert E. Levitt of Canton, majority floor leader, and Walter E. White of Lima, assistant floor leader.

On the Democratic side, A.G. Lancione of Bellaire, a 63-year-old attorney beginning his 25th year in the House, faces competition from Donald J. Pease of Oberlin, a 38-year-old newspaper editor.

Lancione, who has held the post once before, is considered the leading contender. As senior member of his party's delegation, he called the caucus.

Others expressed interest in the post, but later bowed out. There also may be contention for the posts of floor leader and assistant floor leader. Patrick Sweeney of Cleveland is a leading contender for floor leader.

Republicans, who held a 64-35 majority in the Ohio House, will find their edge narrowed by 10 seats in the new legislature. Kurfess, in accepting the post, said that although Democrats will be in control of the administration "the role and responsibility of us as a legislature remains the same."

Lloyd George Kerns of Raymond, who nominated Kurfess, said the speaker would "have a stronger voice than any man in Ohio as to what our (GOP) policies will be."

Republicans in the Senate plan to challenge Kurfess as the party's chief spokesman but will not meet until early December to pick their leaders.

Democrats in the Senate will probably meet the same week. Minority party positions in both houses will take on new importance when Gov.-elect John J. Gilligan takes office Jan. 11. Minority leaders will be responsible for guiding his programs through the GOP-dominated legislature.

Tigers Open Season At Mill St. Court

Coach John Lawhorn will send 5's 1970-71 Circleville Tigers into action for the first time Wednesday night when they host the Chillicothe Cavaliers at the Mill St. gym.

Tom Bowers, 5-foot-13 senior guard is the only returning letterman from last year's and will be co-captain with John Hunt, 6-foot-2 senior center, who saw quite a bit of varsity action last year.

Rounding out the 11-man varsity will be Dennis Jackson, 6-foot-0 senior forward; Gregg Roll, 5-foot-8 senior guard; Mike Hamrick, 6-foot-0 junior forward; Terry Morrison 5-foot-9 junior guard; Jim Neal 5-foot-8 junior guard; Randy Sprout 5-foot-11 junior guard; Don Valentine 5-foot-11 junior forward; Kent Wolfe 6-foot-1 junior forward; and Dave Truex 5-foot-11 sophomore forward.

Most of these cagers saw reserve action last year and will give the club depth and balance.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Mike Flanagan of fourth-ranked Sidney and Coach Jim Conrad of tenth-rated Troy cornered the top Class AAA honors in the Southwestern District football selections.

Flanagan, 6-foot-2, 184-pound senior end, was named the area Class AAA player of the year and Conrad, who guided Troy to a 10-0 season, was voted the big school coach of the year honors.

A district panel of sports writers and broadcasters made the selections for The Associated Press.

Gordon Bell, Troy's junior back, was voted back of the year and Steve Sylvester a senior tackle from fifth-ranked Cincinnati Moeller, was the lineman of the year in Class AAA.

In Class AA, Bill Alexander a Versailles defense tackle was the player of the year, Walt Wingard of Dayton Jefferson and Glenn Harkrader of Middletown Fenwick co-backs of the year and Alexander and Middletown Fenwick's Greg Johnson co-linemen of the year.

Bob Gregg of Dayton Jefferson was named area coach of the year for Class AA.

Rod Geier of Cincinnati Country Day, who led the state in scoring this season, was the Class A player and back of the year and Ed Mikalajewski of Sidney Lehman Catholic the lineman of the year.

The Class A area coach of the year was Jerry Wasserman of second-ranked Mechanicsburg. The selections:

Hang Out College Football Wash

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Hanging out the College of Football Wash:

Joe Paterno of Penn State, an Ivy League graduate (Brown) himself, has long been needing the Ivy to schedule some major Eastern independents if they want to prove they can play with the so-called big boys.

This time, Paterno really stirred up a hornet's nest with his weekend challenge that Dartmouth, the Lambert Trophy champs with a 9-0 record, play runner-up Penn State, 7-3, for "the Eastern championship."

Paterno qualified that somewhat Monday following a charge by Dartmouth that he was "trying to salvage the Lambert Trophy," which is awarded annually for outstanding performance and which Penn State won the past three years. The final vote was taken over the weekend.

"The suggestion had nothing to do with the Lambert," Paterno insisted. "I never mentioned that. I knew Dartmouth would get it and they should get it. I thought we could combine two things—get people a little excited about Eastern football and raise some money to help the funds at Wichita State and Marshall."

"I was a little surprised at Dartmouth's reaction. I thought they'd really be anxious to play us. Maybe I'm naive, but I didn't realize Dartmouth would have to get permission from the Ivy presidents and I also didn't know such a game would have to be approved by the NCAA by Sept. 15. I thought you could schedule an 11th game any time you wanted to."

"And it doesn't have to be Penn State. I just think a game between the Ivy champion and a leading Eastern independent would do a lot to promote Eastern football. Frankly, I'm not sure we're better than Syracuse. They were by far the superior team the day they beat us. But until the Ivies play someone like Penn State, Syracuse, Army or Navy, I don't see how you can evaluate them."

At Dartmouth, Bob Blackman had a few needles of his own honed and waiting.

"I was a little bit amused and in a way kind of disappointed," he said. "It doesn't take a great deal of courage to challenge someone when you know beforehand that a man's hands are tied behind his back." Blackman continued, referring to the perennial reluctance of the Ivy presidents to change their athletic policy. "They're not about to change the rule on a few days' notice."

"I don't think the Penn State players are anxious to extend their season since they turned down the Peach Bowl. The turnaround makes the challenge sound a little ridiculous."

"If we had challenged Penn State last year they would have said it was ridiculous because we had lost a game. Besides, if the rule ever is changed we'd prefer to play somebody with a better record than Penn State."

Talk about weird endings. Harvard's quarterback, Eric Crone, backpedaled into his own end zone and allowed himself to be tackled for a deliberate safety as the gun sounded in a 14-12 victory over Yale.

Also on the last play, Colorado's John Stearns intercepted an Air Force pass and started upfield. Around midfield, he was tackled and the ball squirted loose into the hands of an Air Force player, who had possession just long enough to fumble it right back ... into Stearns' hands as he lay on the ground. An interception and fumble recovery on the same play.

Arizona State's Mike Clupper picked off a New Mexico pass on the last play, of course—and headed goalward, only to run into about 200 kids who thought the game had ended. With the youngsters dodging players and players sidestepping youngsters, Clupper was tackled near the 50. "I felt like laterally to one of those kids," he said.

William & Mary's Steve Regan, all of 5-foot-8 and 155 pounds, started the season as the Indians' fourth-string quarterback. He became a starter in the sixth game after injuries sidelined Nos. 1 and 2 and inconsistency benched No. 3.

All Regan did Saturday in a 34-33 triumph over Richmond that gave W&M a Tangerine Bowl berth was complete 14 of 20 passes for 261 yards and three touchdowns and carry 13 times for 60 yards and a score.

In the final minute, with the ball on his own 20, Regan completed a 30-yard pass, a 10-yarder and a 40-yard for the winning TD with 12 seconds left.

No wonder Coach Lou Holtz observed later, "I'm numb." And he was. A soft drink slipped right through his hands without his ever feeling it.

"Well," said an unnamed player, "there's our fifth fumble only this one didn't hurt."

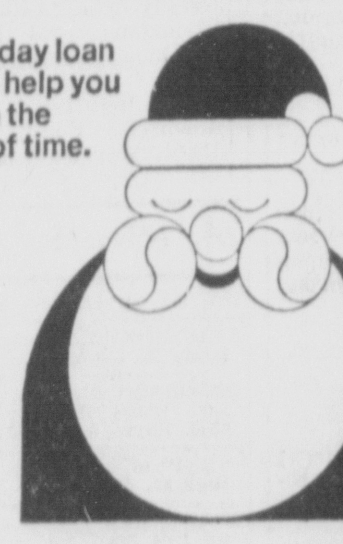

Portsmouth Given AP's Grid Trophy

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—More than 300 fans applauded as the No. 1-ranked Portsmouth Notre Dame High School football team received The Associated Press Class A Gridiron Trophy Monday night.

The Titans recently completed their fourth undefeated season in six years.

In presenting the award at the school's gridiron dinner, The Associated Press' Ohio Bureau Chief Al Dopking, praised the team and coaching staff for "a fine season, one of which everyone can be proud."

OSU Regains No. 2 Spot

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
OHIO STATE replaced Notre Dame as the No. 2 team in The Associated Press college football poll today, diminishing the possibility of the Fighting Irish meeting Texas in a Cotton Bowl battle between the top two teams in the nation.

Texas, which did not play over the weekend, held onto the top spot but Ohio State's 20-9 revenge victory over Michigan vaulted the Buckeyes from fifth to second. They had started the season in first place.

Nebraska remained third with a 28-21 triumph over Oklahoma but Notre Dame's 3-0 squeaker over Louisiana State resulted in a drop from second to fourth. LSU inched from seventh to sixth by one point despite the setback.

Arkansas, heading for a Dec. 5 shootout with Texas for the Southwest Conference crown and the right to face Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl, climbed one spot to fifth with a 24-10 decision over Texas Tech, which had been ranked 19th but fell out of the Top Twenty. Tennessee drubbed Kentucky 45-0 and shot from eighth to seventh.

Michigan, which saw its unbeaten dreams tumble in Ohio Stadium, slipped from fifth to eighth. Arizona State, still undefeated following a 33-21 win over New Mexico, remained in ninth place but Mississippi idle over the weekend, rose from 12th to 10th while the Air Force went from 10th to 12th after a 49-19 blasting by Colorado.

Texas garnered 20 first-place votes and 794 points from a panel of 45 sports writers and broadcasters across the country. Ohio State received 14 votes for No. 1 and 760 points while Nebraska had six first-place votes and 718 points and Notre Dame pulled down three top ballots and 676 points. The other two first place votes went to Arizona State.

Auburn, which also had the weekend off, jumped from 13th to 11th while Stanford, a 22-14 loser to California, went from 11th to 13th.

Rounding out the Top Twenty were Dartmouth, Toledo, Georgia Tech, Penn State, Northwestern, Colorado and Washington.

The last two replaced San Diego State and Texas Tech in the Top Twenty.

SPORTS Highlights

NEW YORK (AP) — Record-breaking quarterbacks Jim Plunkett of Stanford and Joe Theismann of Notre Dame were rated the favorites to win the Heisman Trophy today as college football's outstanding performer.

Still another quarterback, Archie Manning of Mississippi, started the season along with Plunkett as the most touted players. But Manning broke his wrist in a game against Houston earlier this month. He has missed one game and is expected to be out at least one more.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "You can fool the coaches and sometimes even sports writers, but you can't fool the players," Woody Hayes said of Jim Stillwagon's selection as Ohio State's most valuable football player this season.

Stillwagon, a 6-foot, 220-pound senior middle guard from Mount Vernon, was tapped for the honor by his teammates on the 9-0 Big Ten Conference kings that will face Stanford in the Rose Bowl.

"It's the greatest honor in my whole life. I'll cherish it forever," Stillwagon, an All-American as a junior, said when the award was announced at the team banquet Monday night.

Ex-Justice Dons Robe

CINCINNATI (AP) — Retired Associate Justice Tom Clark of the U.S. Supreme Court will put on the black robes again next Monday.

The 70-year-old justice will sit for one week on the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals based here and help relieve its case load.

"Insofar as we know, this is the first time an active or retired associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States has done this since 1898," said Henry Phillips, chief judge of the appellate court covering Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and Michigan.

Senior judges and U.S. District court jurists in the four states have often been asked to sit on the bench when the court has a heavy case load.

Early last summer, Clark began "circuit riding" when he presided over a U.S. district court in San Francisco.

OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC SERVICE

LEGAL NOTICE

Sealed proposals will be received by the Director of Public Service of the City of Circleville, Ohio, at his office, City Hall, 123 South Court Street, Circleville, Ohio 43113, for the following until 12:00 o'clock noon, Eastern Standard Time, December 3rd, 1970 as authorized by Ordinance No. 25-70 for the purchase of a dump truck.

The item to be bid is a 1 to 1 1/2 ton cab-chassis truck suitable for mounting a dump bed and hydraulic hoist.

Specifications and a contract document may be obtained at the Office of the Director of Public Service, City Hall, Circleville, Ohio 43113.

Each proposal shall be submitted on the forms provided and according to the instructions supplied. Each proposal shall also be accompanied by a bid bond given in favor of the City of Circleville, Ohio, for an amount equal to at least five (5) per cent of the total amount of the bid. The bid bond shall be either a bond issued by a surety company authorized to do business in the State of Ohio or a certified check on any solvent bank made payable to the order of the Director of Public Service of the City of Circleville, Ohio. If the bidder fails or refuses to enter into a contract within ten (10) days after notice of acceptance of his proposal, the bidder shall forfeit to the City of Circleville his bid bond.

The bid bonds of unsuccessful bidders shall be canceled and returned. The bid bond of the successful bidder shall be retained pending the proper delivery of the specified truck.

The Director of Public Service reserves the right to reject any and all bids, waive any informalities in the same, or accept any bid or combination of bids based on lowest and best bid or bids.

Solicitor Represents City In Civil, Criminal Matters

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the thirteenth of a series of articles focusing on the work of each department and board which are necessary in the government of Circleville. One of the elected officials, the city solicitor, is covered in this section.

By MICHELE HULSE
Herald Staff Writer

Legal representation for the city is provided by the city solicitor in Circleville. This man is O. Charles Hosterman, a practicing attorney in the city.

In civil suits against the city, Hosterman provides defense or may delegate this power to a private professional defense attorney. In suits which the city brings against citizens the same is allowed.

Most suits of the style "City vs. Offender," most involve criminal cases of the minor sort. To represent the city in every one of the numerous suits handled daily would be a full time job. Hosterman has arranged his schedule to permit him to attend all contested cases on Thursday in the Municipal Court. He is also legal representative of the State of Ohio in misdemeanors. All felony offenses appearing in the city court for preliminary hearing are delivered out of his hands. The County Prosecutor becomes the state representative in these cases.

Speaking of prosecution of lawbreakers naturally leads to a discussion of city codes and their lack of use. Most officers here use state laws when arresting or charging a person which mean valuable money escaping the city's treasury.

WHEN a person is charged under a city code, all fines and costs are paid into the city. Under a state code, these funds are split between the city and state and a small amount to the county. This practice causes Roundtown to lose valuable revenue.

Why is it done then? Circleville's laws have been amended, altered and adapted in many ways since the old law registry was drawn up in the 1950's and no method of revising the old book was ever attempted as the changes were made. The only way now to check on a law's current standing is to leaf through a big pile of ordinances adopted since the book's publishing.

Hosterman noted that the old bound book of laws was outdated two weeks after its printing when city council amended one law. Since then this trend has continued until it is impossible to know what is law and what is not.

With the new system outdated laws may be removed from the book by page and the new one inserted in its place. This way the code book can be constantly updated and be in use at all times, bringing the city needed revenue.

In addition to criminal hearings, Hosterman serves as legal adviser to all city departments, including the school board. He completes some of the drafting of legislation before it goes to council and is required by law to approve all the bills that appear on the council clerk's desk. In many cases, the departments drafting the law can take the old ordinance and write their correction into the old form. It is also an advantage to have an attorney for mayor who can offer aid in this area.

Hosterman is going into his last year of a four year term of office as solicitor. During this time he has seen a pileup of criminal cases, specifically drunken driving cases, awaiting jury hearing in the Municipal Court. From four on file in 1966 when he took office, this has increased steadily to a total of 29 for 1969 alone. The solicitor's big peeve is that most of these persons are habitual offenders before the court for their third or fourth time. "They are in flagrant violation of our drunk driving laws," he commented. "But there is nothing I can do except refuse to reduce the charge to one of reckless operation." It is extremely wrong, he feels, to mete out the same punishment to the social drinker as to the constant offender.

O. CHARLES HOSTERMAN

MUNICIPAL Court has never held a drunk driving trial. Only on rare occasions do they have trials on civil matters and then a local attorney is drafted to preside over one of the hearings. It is difficult to schedule trials since the city court is open daily, Monday through Friday, just to handle normal court business. Space is also a problem, but it could be done.

There is some thought that

OU Withdraws Mt. Logan Property Bid

Ohio University, which had expressed interest in acquiring the Mount Logan Sanatorium property, has dropped its offer to a lease purchase arrangement. The chairman of the six county joint board of commissioners responsible for the property, called a meeting of the board after being advised by the university they are no longer interested.

The Mount Logan property adjoins the OU - Chillicothe campus.

University officials reported proposals have been made to reorganize OU - C and 16 other state universities into community and technical colleges.

The joint board of commissioners will meet to decide whether to sell the sanatorium property at public auction or by sealed bids.

Coward's 'Hay Fever' On OSU Agenda

Noel Coward humor will prevail in an enduringly popular comedy, "Hay Fever," to be presented by Ohio State University's Division of Theatre in December.

Eleven performances have been scheduled for the well known playwright-actor's production beginning Dec. 2 and playing nightly except Dec. 6 in the Museum Theatre at 15th Ave. and High St. in Columbus. A special matinee has been scheduled Dec. 5 at 2:30 p.m. All other performances will begin at 8 p.m.

"Hay Fever," is a frivolous comedy about a family of eccentrics and the madcap complications they encounter when they each invite a weekend guest to their country home without having informed the others and the guest turn out to be an ill-assorted group.

The leading character is a retired actress who cannot quite forget her stage roles and compulsively turns every conversation and incident of her daily life into a "scene," complete with outrageous clichés of dialogue. This keeps her temperamental family of an author husband, a grown son and daughter, amusingly stirred up and tossing her cues to bring out her best lines.

Helplessly trapped by the ranting, monopolizing conversation of the actress, the four guests try to behave politely according to the conversations of the houseparty only to be bewildered by their hosts' rudeness and neglect.

"Hay Fever" was originally performed in London in 1925 when the then-25-year-old Coward was first proving himself in theatre by having four plays produced within the year, and singing, dancing and acting in two of them.

Ticket information is available by calling OSU's Division of the Theatre at 422-2295, between the hours of 11 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

'Free Blood' Is Benefit Of Meeting County Quota

What do you know of the Pickaway County Red Cross Blood Program? Would you believe that because of this program life was sustained for one county resident who, alone, received 170 pints of blood at a cost of $4,426.50 in one hospital stay?

The patient was not required to pre-deposit the blood, replace the blood, nor pay for the cost of the blood because Pickaway County participates in and supports the Red Cross Blood Program.

A rare case, but an example cited to illustrate the importance of and benefits derived from the locally sponsored program.

William White, a former resident of the county and a Circleville Bible College student, was admitted to Kettering Memorial Hospital, Dayton, in August for dental work. It was necessary in White's case that the dental work be done in a hospital facility because he is a hemophiliac, a person who bleeds excessively from the most insignificant wound. The condition requires countless blood transfusions until the patient's blood coagulates properly.

IN White's case, the amount of blood used was 170 pints. Subsequent billing from the hospital following his release, included $4,426.50 for blood used — exclusive of charges for administering the blood. The Dayton hospital had no blood program but because White was then a resident of a community which participates in a blood program which is meeting its annual blood collection quota, the hospital accepted reciprocation of the blood used and deducted the charges from the bill.

What benefits do you as a Pickaway County resident derive from the Red Cross Blood Program? As long as the annual blood collection quota is met, each resident and immediate family members, are eligible to receive blood if needed, without replacement or predeposit and free of charge.

Without the program, there would be no benefits. Any resident receiving blood would be required to pre-deposit or replace the blood used and pay the cost of the blood along with charges for administering the blood. In the case of White, both replacement and costs would have been a near-insurmountable burden.

Current hospital charges for blood range from $25 a pint to as much as $300 a unit, depending on type and scarcity. It is significant to note here that doctors prefer using blood received through Red Cross programs over commercial blood.

The local Blood Program has been sponsored by the Pickaway County Chapter Red Cross since 1948. Circleville Rotary has been responsible for promoting the program for the past 10 years. Blood is collected in the local program during a visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile to the community.

THE annual collection quota is based on potential usage, population and determined by the past year's use. This is broken down into a certain number of units to be collected per Bloodmobile visit. As long as the community participates and maintains 90 per cent of quota, all residents are assured of having blood needs met.

Blood is not life — but it sustains life and the need is constantly increasing with population growth, surgical and medical advances and expanded hospital facilities. The need is met through donors. A person between the ages of 16 and 65, in good health, can be a blood donor. The actual donation takes approximately seven minutes. The entire process involving interview, tests and refreshments requires less than one hour.
